

Hartford Ct. June 26th 1852.

W. Lloyd Garrison Esq

Dear Sir,

I have been requested by some friends to choose some paper wherein to publish the enclosed, and other letters; they judging that others than myself and sister might be benefitted by their perusal. I would prefer to read them in your paper if you judge them worthy of publication. They are, perhaps, of too private a nature for the general taste, but are not some minds better reached in this familiar ^{way}, than by a more formal address? and have I not more sisters than one, among "our Father's" children, whose hearts will respond to my thoughts? I shall not feel hurt if you recommend some other paper as more suitable for their insertion, but shall respect your advice. If you do not publish please return them unread but by yourself. Should you give them publication, I wish to be known to the public only as Silona.

My husband, Andrew Jackson Davis, joins me in sincere regards to you, we hope to see you sometime in Hartford if you should feel attracted to us, and we shall be most happy to welcome you.

very respectfully

Catharine DeWolf Davis.
